Quick Answer: Yes — Frontier Typically Charges for Name Changes

Yes, Frontier Airlines normally charges a fee to change the passenger name on a ticket, but how the fee applies depends on the type of name change:

- ✓ Minor corrections (small spelling errors) — usually low or no fee
- ✓ Major name changes (different person) — typically a full change fee plus fare difference
- ✗ Name changes to another person are generally not allowed without a fee

Always check your ticket rules and, if needed, call Frontier at 📞 1-877-622-0707 OR UK (1-877-622-0707) for clarification before making changes.

What Counts as a Name Change?

Frontier makes a distinction between:

⇒ Minor Name Corrections

Small spelling mistakes, missing letters, or formatting issues often fall under name corrections rather than a full change. In many cases:

- Frontier may allow correction without a big fee
 - You still might need to contact support to fix it
 - Call 📞 1-877-622-0707 OR UK (1-877-622-0707) for help

🔄 Full Name Changes (Different Passenger)

If the ticket needs to be transferred to a different person:

- Frontier usually treats this like canceling and reissuing the ticket
- A name change fee applies
- You may also pay the fare difference if the new flight is more expensive
- For exact pricing, contact 📞 1-877-622-0707 OR UK (1-877-622-0707)

Because Frontier is strict due to security rules, full passenger swaps are limited and often cost more.

Why Does Frontier Charge for Name Changes?

Name change fees exist because airlines guarantee that the person on the ticket is the same person who flies. Frontier uses this policy to:

- ✈️ Meet TSA and international travel security standards
- 🛡️ Prevent ticket fraud or misuse
- 📄 Ensure accurate travel documentation

If you notice a name error, it's best to fix it as soon as possible—before travel day—to avoid bigger fees or boarding issues. Calling 📞 1-877-622-0707 OR UK (1-877-622-0707) early can help.
